Along the way to the glacier, we will have a good view of the glacier lagoon and the area around the glacier. We start with a safety briefing and a short lesson how to use the crampons and the ice pick on the glacier walk. The glacial landscape is amazing and dynamic, including crevices, sinkholes and small black volcanic sandhills. Sometimes it's possible to take a look at the small holes or enter the caves. In winter the ice is blue and clear, the surface mostly covered by snow. During the summertime, the ice becomes more white and the volcanic ash which forms various patterns in the landscape is more visible. As previously mentioned the glacial landscape changes day by day which makes it even more interesting to see and explore. Sólheimajökull glacier is the ideal place to view geomorphology and the effects of global warming on glaciers.

Inside the Volcano

The dormant Þríhnúkagígur volcano is a unique natural phenomenon. This tour opens the door to a new world. To be able to experience this wonder, all you need is the willingness to do a moderate 45–50 minute hike (to get to the crater) and the guts to descend 120 meters/400 feet to the bottom of the crater in an open cable lift. The hike to the volcano is an integral part of the tour, not only because of the breathtaking scenery, but also because it's the only way of getting to the base of the volcano. Þríhnúkagígur volcano is dormant – it last erupted over 4,000 years ago. There are no indications of it erupting again in the near future. The volcano's name, mostly unpronounceable for anyone other than locals, would be directly translated as 'Three Peaks Crater'. We need to walk approximately 3.5 km (2 miles) each way. The walk usually takes around 45–50 minutes (depending on the condition of people in the group). A guide will be with you at all times during the walk.

	Approx. 5 to 6 h duration

Note: Around 45 m inside the crater. The walk usually takes around 45–50 minutes | All safety gear, helmets, harnesses, etc. included | Traditional Icelandic meat soup, coffee/tea and perhaps some sweets as well. Will be served vegetarian soup | Moderate difficulty

In 2012, the company's iconic centerpiece—the Blue Lagoon—was named one of 25 wonders of the world by National Geographic, propelling the majestic, healing waters into the upper echelons of global travel destinations. Two thousand meters within the earth, ocean water and freshwater converge in a tectonic realm of searing heat and extreme pressure, creating geothermal seawater. Drawn to the surface through geothermal extraction wells, the water emerges enriched with silica, algae, and minerals—the bioactive elements that endow this unique fluid with its healing, rejuvenating, nourishing abilities. Blue Lagoon's surrounding landscape—the moss lava field—was created in 1226 AD. In order to protect the lava and the delicate, centuries-old greenery, paths were created, enabling visitors to wander through the enchanting environment without destroy the nature.
